Wherever possible the Board will make decision on a consensus basis, but if this is not possible a show of hands will be taken by the Chair and a motion will be carried by a majority of the Directors present.

2.3.9 DIRECTOR'S INTERESTS

CONFLICTS OF INTEREST

Directors will take care to ensure that no real or perceived conflicts of interest exist relative to decisions they make as a Director of the Company. Directors must not use their position with the Company to gain advantage to themselves or someone else (including their employer), maintain a fiduciary duty to the Company and not cause detriment to the Company.

Directors should disclose any potential conflict of interest at the beginning of the meeting or at the time a particular issue of conflict arises in the Agenda. The Chair then will either:

- Seek views of other Directors as to whether a conflict exists; if so,
- Ask the Director to leave the room while the matter is discussed;
- Ask the Director for their views on the matter and then ask them to leave the room while it is discussed.

The following examples, which are not inclusive and do not cover the issue of materiality, provide a guide to the application of this policy:

Direct Financial Interest

A Director must disclose a direct conflict of interest where the Director, his or her immediate family, or any organisation to which the Director is associated receives a direct financial benefit, or loss. Consideration needs to be given to the scope of the organisation and the degree of association. For example, a Director would have a direct conflict of interest where he or she is an employee of a Company or organisation and a contract with the organisation was being considered by the Board.

Indirect Financial Interest

A Director must disclose an indirect conflict of interest where the Director, his or her immediate family, or any organisation to which the Director is associated receives an indirect financial benefit. For example, a Director would have an indirect conflict of interest where he or she is a member of an organisation that has had a strong involvement in a contract that could benefit the organisation or its members.

CONSEQUENCES OF FAILURE TO OBSERVE POLICY

Corporate governance breaches can carry both civil and criminal penalties, could jeopardise the Responsible Wood's operations, prejudice stakeholder perceptions, and put the Responsible Wood itself at risk.

2.3.10 BOARD PERFORMANCE

The Board will determine how it will assess its performance and this will be done at least every 2 years.

2.4 CODE OF CONDUCT

A Code of Conduct is a cornerstone of the Responsible Wood corporate governance. Framed to reflect good governance principles as set out in AS 8000-2003 Australian Standard, Good Governance Principles.

2.4.1 THE NEED FOR A CODE

Ethical conduct is a non-negotiable obligation of Directors and staff stemming from the duties that they owe to those financing the Company and to their wider stakeholders. It is an explicit and implicit imperative of legislation, which is reinforced by criminal and civil penalties.

Guidelines on corporate governance state that bodies should operate in a manner consistent with community expectations, decisions of the Board and relevant legislation, and that it is essential for the organisation's guiding ethics and Code of Conduct to be clearly understood and followed by each member of the organisation and to be communicated to all stakeholders.

In keeping with those guidelines, the Directors and staff are committed to demonstrating, through both their words and actions, an absolute allegiance to the Code. They accept responsibility for promoting high standards of ethics and integrity, recognising that the attitudes and actions of Directors and staff affect the integrity, ethics, values and other aspects of the Company's culture.

2.4.2 BEING SEEN TO BE ETHICAL

The Code of Conduct not only guides behaviour; it is also important in helping to encourage accurate perceptions of behaviour. Although actual adherence to the highest ethical standards is paramount, it is also important for the organisation and the individual to avoid ambiguous behaviour that may be perceived as unethical. The requirement to be seen to be ethical is not an obligation borne alone by the individual Director or staff member: the transparency of the Company's management processes goes a long way to counter such misconceptions. Nevertheless, the potential for behaviour to be misconstrued is ever-present.

2.4.3 RESPONSIBLE WOOD DIRECTORS CODE OF CONDUCT

- Directors must act honestly, in good faith and in the best interests of the Company as a whole.
- Directors have a duty to use care and diligence in fulfilling the functions of office and exercising the powers attached to that office.
- Directors must use the powers of office for a proper purpose, in the best interests of the Company as a whole.
- Directors must recognise that the primary responsibility is to the Company's Members as a whole but should, where appropriate, have regard for the interest of all stakeholders of the Company.
- Directors must not make improper use of information acquired as a Director.
- Directors must not take improper advantage of the position of Director.
- Directors must declare and properly manage any conflict of interest with the activities of the Company.
- Directors have an obligation to be independent in judgement and actions and to take all reasonable steps to be satisfied as to the soundness of all decisions taken by the Board of Directors.
- Confidential information received by a Director in the course of the exercise of Directorial duties remains the property of the Company from which it was obtained and it is improper to disclose it, or allow it to be disclosed, unless that disclosure has been authorised by that Company, or the person from whom the information is provided, or is required by law.
- Directors should not engage in conduct likely to bring discredit upon the Company.
- Directors have an obligation, at all times, to comply with the spirit, as well as the letter, of the law and with the principles of this Code.
- Directors will support the word and spirit of Board decisions outside the Boardroom.

2.4.4 CONSEQUENCES OF FAILURE TO OBSERVE THE CODE

Breach of this policy would jeopardise good corporate governance, possibly to a serious degree. The following clauses within the Constitution allow for the dismissal of a Director in breach of Code of Conduct.

Responsible Wood Constitution Clauses:

27.1 The Company may by resolution passed in general meeting:

- (a) Subject to clause 26.1 increase or reduce the number of Directors; and

- (b) Remove any Director before the end of the Director's period of office.

27.5

- (a) If the conduct or position of any Director is such that continuance in office appears to the majority of the Directors to be prejudicial to the interests of the Company, two-thirds of the Directors at a meeting of the Directors specifically called for that purpose may suspend that Director.
- (b) Within 14 days of the suspension, the Directors must call a general meeting, at which the Members may either confirm the suspension and remove the Director from office in accordance with clause 27.1(b) or annul the suspension and reinstate the Director.
